2. It is felt that to carry out the duties outlined, such a JOT should have developed some maturity through other experience and that none should be assigned until he has been fully trained. A number of Trainees will be brought on board during the summer, but it will be several months before they will be sufficiently trained for such an assignment as you suggest.

3. It is the policy of the JOT Program to make assignments for on-the-job training which will lead to permanent assignment in line with the training the JOT has received and which will eventually lead to an overseas post.

4. Upon the conclusion of the training of the group of JOT's referred to in paragraph 2, Chief/JOTP will evaluate those who will be available for assignment with a view to filling your request. At such time he will confer with whomever you may suggest to discuss the details of the program you have outlined.
